Vodka doesn't get the respect it deserves. Many believe vodka is less sophisticated than spirit counterparts such as bourbon, but that's not true.

Instead, vodka is a palatable and versatile liquor that can be enjoyed in mixed drinks or sipped on its own, with or without rocks.

While it's good to avoid wasting money, these high-end vodkas will give you an exceptional drinking experience, making them worth the splurge.

8. Kástra Elión Vodka

Kástra Elión Vodka hails from the Nafpaktos region of Greece. It is made with hand-picked olives and fine grain, which impart a distinctive Mediterranean quality to the spirit.

Kástra Elión Vodka has a delicate briny flavor with a distinct olive note, complemented by a buttery finish. If ever there was a vodka perfect for a dirty martini, this is it.

A bottle of this unique Greek liquor will cost you $46.99, which may not be worth it if you only want sipping vodka. But for that aforementioned martini, it's a must-try.
